ISTANBUL BOMBING

A suicide bomber thought to have crossed recently from Syria killed at least 10 people in Istanbul, most of them German tourists, in an attack Prime Minister Ahmet Davutoglu blamed on Islamic State. All of those killed in Sultanahmet square, near the Blue Mosque and Hagia Sophia — major tourist sites in the center of one of the world's most visited cities — were foreigners, Davutoglu said. ## FLA. DEATH SENTENCE

2 Florida's sentencing process in death penalty cases violates the constitutional rights of criminal defendants, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled on Tuesday, siding with a death row inmate convicted in the 1998 murder of a fried-chicken restaurant manager. The court's 8-1 decision means inmate Timothy Hurst, 37, could be re-sentenced, potentially avoiding the death penalty. First, the case will return to the Florida Supreme Court to determine whether Hurst's death sentence can be upheld on other grounds. REUTERS

BRIEF

Fifth teen suspect taken into custody for Brooklyn gang rape

The last of five teens as young as age 14 accused of raping an 18-year-old woman in a Brooklyn playground last week was taken into custody on Tuesday, New York City police said.

Police initially said one of the teens used a gun to order the girl's father to leave the playground in the downtrodden Brownsville section of Brooklyn on Thursday night and then attacked her.

Four of the teens, who range in age from 14 to 17, were charged with a single count each of rape and sex abuse and two counts of participating in a criminal sex act, police said. The fifth suspect, who was taken into custody at about 11 a.m., is awaiting charges, police said. He is 17.

Conflicting information has surfaced about details of the assault, including whether a gun was involved, said Rep. Hakeem Jeffries, whose congressional district includes Brownsville.

He said the father had been drinking alcohol with his underage daughter "to the point where he became intoxicated. ... The initial reports were that he was threatened with a gun but that seems to be based on his version of events."

Police declined to comment on the case, saying the investigation was continuing.

By the time the father returned with two uniformed police officers, the suspects had fled. The woman was taken to a local hospital, where she was treated and released. The congressman said the young woman and her father had recently reconnected after a troubled past. METRO

Anti-gun series looks to combat violence through love

Victor Verhaeghe's comedic short clips will show moments of conflict resolved through positive responses.

ANGY ALTAMIRANO
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

All you need is love — that's the message behind one project looking to take a new step into combating gun violence.

Actor and writer Victor Verhaeghe, who can be seen in the recent film "Bridge of Spies," plans to create a Web series that takes on the issues of violence through the use of love.

The Washington Heights resident first started writing the series, called "What If?" during the summer when he said he had enough of hearing about all the violence happening around the nation.

"Here in New York City, you pick up the paper and it's not 'was there a shooting?' it's 'how many shootings were there," Verhaeghe said. "This summer I was in a place that I had enough. I got a spark and sort of went with it."

Through the series — which is expected to include one- to two-minute comedic short clips — Verhaeghe will ask the question: "What if there was no gun violence?"

Each short will show a positive twist to scenarios — such as road rage or office quarrels — that are

Victor Verhaeghe

"It's a response to the insanity of our country and our love of guns."

Verhaeghe

all resolved through positive responses.

"I believe on both sides of the political spectrum that love is something people identify with," he said. "It's easier to act on your anger. It's more challenging to stop and think 'what if I did it this way.'"

Along with writing the shorts, Verhaeghe — who partnered with the nonprofit Zena Group and provider TV Boy — will also act in each of them alongside his friend Matt Higgins.

Currently the project is on hold and aiming to meet a $10,000 goal on a Kickstarter campaign in the next 19 days. If fully funded, the filming of the series is expected to start right away with the release of the shorts expected for the springtime.

Overall Verhaeghe hopes once the clips hit the Internet, the message will spread and reach the ears of everyone — especially those who hold stronger views on guns.

"It's a response to the insanity of our country and our love of guns and gun violence," he said about the project. "It's a response to the fact that I think we could do something."

NY Daily News drops newsstand price to $1

Starting this week, readers will be able to grab a copy of the New York Daily News off the newsstands for just one dollar.

New York's hometown paper announced that as of Jan. 11 the weekday print edition of the newspaper will go down from $1.25 to $1 in all the five boroughs.

"As New York's hometown paper, we look for every opportunity to bring our loyal readers the news they need at a lower price point," Bill Holiber, president and CEO, said in a statement. "The diversity of this city is a huge part of what makes our journalism great, and we are committed to ensure the community has a voice on issues both locally and nationally."

In 2014, the Daily News raised its price from 75 cents but now according to reports the drop in price might show signs of the paper being in a better financial position. Its competitor, the New York Post also sells for $1.

According to Observer.com, about 130,000 copies of the Daily News are sold on newsstands daily — a number down from 346,000 five years ago.

Holiber emphasized the paper prides itself on "quality journalism" with a mission to cover issues in both the city and throughout the nation. He added that the Daily News covers issues ranging from housing, education, health care, jobs, crime, gun control, civil rights, immigration and safety. METRO

This is how much NYC neighborhoods cost per square foot

See how scary high the real estate is in your neighborhood.

New Yorkers don't need a report to tell them that they can't afford a good part of the city's real estate.

But exactly how much does your dream neighborhood demand per square foot?

StreetEasy crunched the data for the majority of New York City's enclaves to determine the priciest areas based on the median price per square foot.

Unsurprisingly, the top 20 were all in Manhattan with the exception of the equally pricey DUMBO, Brooklyn. The five priciest were the longtime desirable and notoriously expensive neighborhoods of Central Park South ($2,521.05), Tribeca ($2,018.53), Nolita ($2,005.06), SoHo ($1,991.89) and Flatiron ($1,928.92).

StreetEasy also noted some of the "more down-to-earth square-foot prices," as Manhattan's Lower East Side ($999) and Sutton Place ($957), and Brooklyn's Greenpoint ($988) and Prospect Heights ($963).

Their picks for the "low end of the scale" were all outside of Brooklyn and Queens. (Note: The analysis did not include Staten Island.)

These neighborhoods included Kew Gardens, Queens ($256), Parkchester, Bronx ($175) and Springfield Gardens, Queens ($99). CRISTABELLE TUMOLA

President Obama delivers his last State Of The Union address. GETTY IMAGES

President Obama's final State of the Union address

President Barack Obama accused critics on Tuesday of playing into the hands of Islamic State by comparing the fight against the militant group to World War Three, in an address aimed at laying out an optimistic vision of America's future.

Obama said it was fiction to declare the United States was in economic decline or getting weaker on the international stage, despite rhetoric from Republican presidential candidates vying to replace him in the Nov. 8 election.

"Masses of fighters on the back of pickup trucks and twisted souls plotting in apartments or garages pose an enormous danger to civilians and must be stopped. But they do not threaten our national existence," Obama said, according to prepared remarks.

"That's the story ISIL wants to tell; that's the kind of propaganda they use to recruit. We don't need to build them up to show that we're serious, nor do we need to push away vital allies in this fight by echoing the lie that ISIL is representative of one of the world's largest religions," he said, referring to Islamic State by an acronym.

The remarks were a repudiation of Republican criticism of his strategy against Islamic State and, not so subtly, of Republican frontrunner Donald Trump's call to temporarily ban Muslims from entering the United States.

"I believe in change because I believe in you," said President Barack Obama in the last moments of his final State of the Union speech, one meant to paint an optimistic view of America's future.

Syrians wait on the outskirts of the besieged rebel-held Syrian town of Madaya. GETTY IMAGES

UN investigation into starving Syrian town

The U.N. inquiry, composed of independent experts, has long denounced use of starvation by both sides in the Syrian conflict as a weapon of war.

Residents of a besieged Syrian town have told U.N. investigators how the weakest in their midst, deprived of food and medicines in violation of international law, are suffering starvation and death, the top U.N. war crimes investigator told Reuters on Tuesday.

An aid convoy on Monday brought the first food and medical relief for three months to the western town of Madaya, where 40,000 people are trapped by encircling government forces.

Another United Nations official who oversaw the aid delivery described on Tuesday how he saw malnourished residents, particularly children, some of whom were little more than skeletons and barely moving.

The U.N. commission of inquiry documenting war crimes in Syria has been in direct contact with residents inside Madaya, the commission's chairman Paulo Pinheiro said in an emailed reply to Reuters questions.

"They have provided detailed information on shortages of food, water, qualified physicians and medicine. This has led to acute malnutrition and deaths among vulnerable groups in the town." he said in the email sent from his native Brazil.

"Siege tactics, by their nature, target the civilian population by subjecting them to starvation, denial of basic essential services and medicines," Pinheiro said on Tuesday.

Rebel forces are also besieging the government-held villages of Foua and Kafraya in Idlib province, where U.N. supplies were also delivered on Monday, Pinheiro noted. Islamic State fighters are besieging government-held areas of Deir al-Zor, he added.

NFL panel recommends Carson for proposed Los Angeles stadium

A committee of National Football League owners recommended a proposal for a stadium in the Los Angeles suburb of Carson that is backed by the San Diego Chargers, the NFL said on Tuesday.

The six-member committee's recommendation, which still requires a ratification vote by the league's 32 owners who are meeting in Houston to discuss the matter, comes as three NFL teams are seeking to relocate to the Los Angeles area.

The recommendation of Carson over a rival proposal for a stadium in Inglewood backed by the St. Louis Rams would appear to favor the plan from the Chargers, who are interested in partnering with the Oakland Raiders to share the facility.

The Rams had proposed building a stadium in Inglewood, roughly 10 miles from downtown Los Angeles.

Owners are also considering a compromise proposed by Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones to have the Chargers and Rams share the new stadium.

Los Angeles has been without an NFL team for 21 seasons, abandoned in 1995 by both the St. Louis-bound Rams and the Raiders, who returned to Oakland, both frustrated by an inability to get a new stadium in Los Angeles. REUTERS

Biden: Sanders has 'struck a chord with voters' in race with Clinton

Sanders has argued that he is a more authentic choice to be the party's nominee.

A food cart vendor shows his support for Bernie Sanders in New York City. BILLY BECERRA, METRO

Vice President Joe Biden praised Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders for tapping into Americans' concerns about growing income inequality, potentially giving the Vermont senator a boost as he gains on rival Hillary Clinton weeks before the Iowa caucuses.

Sanders tries to undermine Clinton's double-digit lead in national polls by gaining ground in the important early nominating states of Iowa and New Hampshire.

In an interview with CNN, Biden said Sanders' focus on the growing gap between the very rich and other Americans has struck a chord with voters.

"Bernie is speaking to a yearning that is deep and real and he has credibility on it," Biden said. "And that is the absolute enormous concentration of wealth in a small group of people with the new class now being able to be shown being left out."

He said Clinton, who is campaigning in Iowa on Tuesday, had not focused on income inequality as long.

"It's relatively new for Hillary to talk about that," Biden said. "Hillary's focus has been other things up to now and that's been Bernie's. No one questions Bernie's authenticity on those issues."

On Tuesday, Biden said that was not a criticism of Clinton, a former U.S. secretary of state. He told NBC's "Today" show that her focus had rightly been on foreign policy, while income inequality had long been Sanders' "mantra."

The Biden interviews came before President Barack Obama's final State of the Union address on Tuesday night.

While Clinton has a large national lead in the polls, she has struggled to make solid gains in Iowa and New Hampshire, which hold outsized influence on the election process.

On Tuesday, a Quinnipiac University poll showed Sanders climbed to 49 percent in Iowa, a 5 percentage point lead over Clinton going in to the Feb. 1 caucuses. He widened his lead in New Hampshire by 14 points, a Monmouth University poll said. The polls had an error margin of 4.4 and 4.8 points, respectively.

> "Even when income inequality wasn't as serious as it is today, it was his drumbeat."

Biden was courted by some Democrats to seek the presidential nomination but declined, citing family obligations after his son Beau Biden died of cancer last year. Within the party, concerns remain whether Clinton can overcome a lack of enthusiasm among voters. REUTERS

BRIEF

Republican Rubio authors Senate bill to curb Cuban immigration benefits

Sen. Marco Rubio, a Republican presidential candidate, and a fellow Cuban-American lawmaker introduced legislation on Tuesday that would cut back on some of the special benefits given to immigrants from Cuba.

Rubio introduced the bill in the Senate and has made his Cuban heritage a theme of his campaign for his party's nomination to run for the White House in the November election. But the Florida senator has also questioned the generous benefits given to immigrants from the Communist-ruled island.

Republican Rep. Carlos Curbelo, also of Florida, introduced the measure in the House of Representatives.

President Barack Obama and Cuban President Raul Castro announced in December 2014 they would seek more normal relations. In July, diplomatic ties were restored after 54 years of enmity.

Rubio and Curbelo are staunch opponents of the policy shift, saying Cuba's government must protect human rights for its citizens before benefiting from closer U.S. ties. REUTERS

A new flying robot to push around town

A video still from a "Fleye" demonstration. "FLEYE" YOUTUBE

A robotic drone its makers call "Fleye" is both smart and safe thanks to a myriad of sensors, a powerful onboard computer and its unique shape.

"We have a single-propeller machine where the propeller is inside a ball so you don't see anything moving from the outside. You can touch it, you can bump into it and you won't hurt yourself," said Laurent Eschenauer, CEO & co-founder of Belgian tech company Fleye.

The rotor of the flying robot is encased in a plastic sphere about the size of a soccer ball. Developers say that along with its safety features, what sets their robot apart is its autonomous capabilities powered by an onboard dual-core computer.

"Fleye is supercharged with sensors like most drones, accelerometers, gyros, altimeters. It is also using computer vision to find where it is in space, especially indoors where you don't have GPS. So, Fleye is capable of staying on the same spot hovering without any pilot controlling it just by looking at the environment so it knows where it is," Eschenauer said.

"So we have a vision of the future of flying robots which becomes totally autonomous. So no more pilot in the loop, floating around us and helping us with many different tasks, collecting data, transporting things for us," he added.

The company has raised $300,000 to date on Kickstarter, a good start for a flying robot that can snap the perfect selfie of its user. Fleye was unveiled last week at the Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas. REUTERS

THOUSANDS of knee arthritis sufferers flock for this advanced medical treatment - How they relieve pain while you suffer

Knee Arthritis Pain: The Untold Story

Why patients come from all over the country for this knee arthritis pain treatment and why waiting drastically decreases your chance to live a pain free life again

OsteoRelief Institute is a medical clinic with multiple locations in New York City that has treated thousands of knee arthritis patients.
Here is what every knee arthritis sufferer should know about the best treatments and options available today. And why waiting drastically decreases your chances to live a pain free life again.

The information you are about to read can possibly save you from years and years of agonizing knee pain.
It might even keep you from getting total knee replacement surgery.
Please pay careful attention. What you are about to read is a cutting-edge medical treatment... but it is NOT what it appears to be at first glance.
In fact, I'm going to have to ask for a bit of patience from you if you have already unsuccessfully tried any (or many) other knee arthritis pain treatments.
You see, many knee arthritis sufferers had already tried the treatment we are going to talk about and did not get the results they wanted. But I assure you there is something VERY DIFFERENT about the technology and the way we do this treatment that makes it much different.
And often gets results when many others have failed.
This is why patients come from all over the tri-state area

Pharmaceutical companies (with the help of scientists) can now make synovial fluid-like compounds that... during viscosupplementaiton treatments... doctors precisely inject directly into the knee joint. This helps replace the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - allowing it to move more freely and smoothly and often decreasing or even eliminating the pain.

What Results CanBe Expected?
Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. In fact, it is impossible to predict results and there are no statistics proving what the "average" patients can expect. Everyone is individual and gets individual results - so we never tell anyone to expect the same results as any of our other patients. But to be 100% clear - many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

What Are Treatments Like?
Treatments are simple, fast and virtually painless. The total time of the procedure itself is only 10 minutes and most say it is like getting a flu shot. You walk out of the clinic just minutes after your procedure.

But There Is A BIG Problem
The key is the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. If the injection is slightly off, the medication will not get into the knee joint and the treatment will

"I cannot ask for better results"

Dr. Stanley Weiner, M.D. - Surgeon

I had surgery scheduled last year. Three month before I made an appointment with OsteoRelief Institute. I was amazed at the ease with which I was evaluated and the treatment schedule implemented. The results I had at OsteoRelief Institute were outstanding. I cannot ask for better results. After the treatment I was able to go back to work with no discomfort at all. They use a digital monitor to locate the space that they use the treatment for and it's... it's like exact science.
Dr. Stanley Weiner

"I don't have any pain any more"

After I had the treatments the last tuneup I just

"Hey this feels terrific"

I was diagnoses bone on bone about 2 years ago I went to see an Orthopedic Surgeon and he said my knees were shot and I need to get them replaced. OsteoRelief said after looking at x-rays they could help. That procedure is so basic so simple so quick in 15 minutes you are in and out. I did both legs at once which is great. When I got up out of the chair I stood up and I said, "Hey this feels terrific."

"I feel like a new woman - It's amazing."

and beyond to have their knee arthritis pain treated here.

Would You Like Instant Proof?

If you want instant proof - you can just look at all all the actual patient testimonials we have included. These patients were once skeptical just like you... and are now either pain free... or eliminated quite a bit of their pain.

Here's the most important thing: Many said they saw this information SEVERAL times before finally deciding to take action and give us a call. As you can see - they are happy they did. Once crippled with knee pain, they are playing golf again, dancing again, riding bikes again and going for long walks again.

But we do get one very common complaint.

And it is: "I wish I started this treatment much sooner."

Let's be very clear about this.

Time is the most precious thing. There is no way to slow it down - or get any back once it is gone. All the more reason for you to not suffer even one more second than you have to. Missing life suffering in pain is a tragedy. It's time for you to get rid of your knee pan and start living the life you want and deserve.

And please understand this: One of the keys to success in medicine is early diagnosis and treatment. Like many diseases, arthritis only gets worse over time. The longer you wait - the more damage to your knee and the more pain you will be in. If you wait too long, the entire knee joint will be degenerated and your ONLY option will be total knee replacement.

If you are suffering with knee arthritis pain, here is why you should act RIGHT NOW: When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubricating fluids in your knee. In other words, your knee joints basically "dries up." The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid."

not work.

That's why the experts at OsteoReleif Institute use advanced digital imaging so they can see the injection going directly into the knee joint during the treatment.

Research shows that doctors performing joint injections without imaging miss the joint as much as 30% of the time.

If you had viscosupplementation without this special digital imaging without good results - this may be why.

That's why OsteoRelief Institute even takes it one step further. They do not just use one form of advanced imaging during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation medications also come in several different brands and chemical make-ups.

Just like all medications, some people respond better to some than others. While many doctors only use one brand, the experts at Osteorelief Institute use several and great effort is taken to figure out what the best one for YOU is.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain: *Special Your Invitation

OsteoRelief Institute offers a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis treatment screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get some of their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at OsteoRelief Institute. For a complimentary screening, just call 800-227-KNEE. The screenings fill up fast every month. This screening is no cost and there is no further obligation. Call 800-227-KNEE to schedule your screening. Many of the treatments offered at OsteoRelief Institute are covered by many insurance plans and Medicare. Call 800-227-5633 to schedule your screening.

go right to the golf course. I'm able to keep up with these guys who walk - I'm right next to them! My guys on the golf course would say Hey, look at this he doesn't need us to put the ball up any more.

When I'm playing on the course I don't have any pain any more I don't have any aches and pain. I'm out there playing!

"I feel like a new woman"

I came to the clinic because I was not sleeping at night. My leg was Pounding. There were times when I sat too long the knee would tighten up. I would get in pain and I would be miserable and I would have it for the whole night. After the treatment I goof around with my grandchildren. I feel like a new woman. It's great. I know I don't have to sit on the couch and be in pain and I can just pick up and get dressed and go out. It was so gentle.

It got to the point where I couldn't stand up for a period of time and I knew something had to be done about it. You walk into the doctors office - he puts your leg in a machine - he shows you where he is going to do the procedure and before you know it... it's done and you're outta there. Now I'm able to take out my bicycle a couple of the guys and myself we took a couple of rides out in the woods and we had a good time and I couldn't do that for years and now I'm able to do it again.

The pain was excruciating like 24/7. Nothing I took over-the-counter would work so I knew it was something more serious.When I saw that my condition was not getting any better, I decided to do something about it and I immediately made an appointment - I went and started treatment. The feeling of getting back to my dancing and my mobility is indescribable. I feel like a new woman - It's amazing.

"I am ecstatic with the results of this procedure"

One day, as I was running, my knee got tighter and tighter. I had to stop and just walk home. They x-rayed me and said I was a candidate for it. You sit there for about 2-3 minutes and then you are up and walking out the door. I am ecstatic with the results of this procedure because I could not run just weeks before. I ran my race without any issues. I felt good - it just opened a door that was closing.

"I Can Finally Live My Life"

Prior the the relief center I was taking (9:30) and I was becoming addicted to it and it was damaging my health. Since the treatment, I've been able to be less dependent on them. I don't feel helpless anymore. Since going through the procedure I can finally live. I can finally live my life.

What's next for the Kardashian-Jenner empire? Well, it could be a "Bachelorette"-esque dating show featuring one of the single sisters. Momager Kris Jenner was a recent guest on "Bachelor Live" with current "Bachelor" Chris Soules and when asked if one of the Jenner-Kardashian girls would ever host a similar dating show, Jenner said she could probably talk one of them into it. We would expect nothing less from you, Kris. Considering Kourtney, Khloe, Kendall and Kylie are all single, she definitely has options. Hey, maybe she should use this as a way to get Tyga as far away from the family as possible?

If you failed to get James Franco as your NYU professor, the opportunities are not over for getting up close and personal with the modern day Renaissance man. Franco is looking to paint one person — and a very lucky plus one — and while you pose, the three of you can talk about life and take selfies. Yep. This is for real. The winner also gets flown out to wherever this is all going to go down and put up in a four-star hotel. But Franco isn't doing this just to add it to his book-long resume. It's all for charity. Nonprofit (Red) is auctioning this up to the highest bidder. Head to Omaze.com for details.

Noah Cyrus threw an epic "American Horror Story: Freak Show" themed birthday party this week for her sweet 16. First, great theme. Going over the top seems to run in the fam. The party was DJed by Brandi Cyrus (we forgot that other sister existed, too) and the gaggle of teen girls in attendance were given makeovers by BeGlammed. Unfortunately, Miley didn't make an appearance at the party, but it looks like Noah was having way too much fun to even notice.

Carmen Electra: 'Ex' marks the spot

The former "Baywatch" star helps couples cut the cord on "Ex Isle."

NED EHRBAR
@Nedrick
ned.ehrbar@metro.us

Carmen Electra GETTY IMAGES

Carmen Electra is no stranger to airing dirty laundry on television. She did, after all, let MTV chronicle her march to the altar with Dave Navarro 12 years ago on "Til Death Do Us Part." So she's the perfect host for "Ex Isle," which takes couples in toxic relationships to the Caribbean for some couples therapy — all with the aim of getting them to split up for good.

How did they first explain this to you?
Basically the concept of this show was, "We're bringing these five couples to a remote island, you're going to be the host of it, we're bringing in a professional psychiatrist. These couples are basically in very unhealthy and co-dependent relationships, and they feel they need to figure out their issues on how to either move on or get things together." Some people choose to work that stuff out on television. I mean, I chose to get married on TV.

Usually with reality shows the goal isn't to break people up.
I had to deliver quite a lot of bad news, I have to say. There were moments when people had breakdowns, fights. And there were moments where there was crying because of happiness, because of learning. I know some people came out of it heartbroken and some came out stronger. I can definitely see a little bit of myself in a lot of these couples. I was getting upset about the way that certain people were getting treated, but I had to remain kind of like a viewer from the outside. I definitely shared lots of my personal experiences with them, but when it came down to business, it was Dr. Ish [Major]. He definitely broke them down and turned things around.

It just sounds like such a strange environment for that.
We had rules for them. There were no cellphones, no communication with your family or friends. They were basically put on this island without all of those things to fall back on. No texting, nothing. Basically just going out there for three weeks to the Dominican Republic in this beautiful mansion. It's exile. It's dramatic.

And then there's the twist in the middle.
Right. At one point we had a huge surprise for them — we brought in all of these singles, and they were cheering and so excited, and then some of them started to go, "Wait a minute, you're a little bit too excited about this." There was some cheating and some openness to what went on, but … a lot goes on. [Laughs] A whole lot.

Is this the kind of situation you would recommend for anyone you know?
I'm not against therapy in any way, at all. Sometimes you need a third person, and a lot of times you can't see your own behavior or your own co-dependencies. What I always say is life's too short and everyone deserves to be happy, so do what it takes and figure it out, get to that place however you can.

Even if that means going on a TV show in the Dominican Republic?
Even if it means exposing all your baggage to everybody in a public way — which I've done! So who am I to judge?

The mansion looked pretty nice, but were there any not-so-pleasant experiences while filming?
I had a spider crawl up my dress. It was a huge tarantula. It was the biggest spider I'd ever seen in my life. I didn't know that the Dominican is very famous for their spiders, and spiders are my phobia. I sat down at a table during one of the parties and was just talking to the contestants, and I literally felt something crawl up my leg. I look down, I lift up my skirt and I saw this big, black, furry thing on my thigh and literally screamed, jumped out of my chair. I was ripping off my dress, alcohol spilling everywhere. It was utter chaos.

David Bowie was a weirdo like us

JENNA BUSCH

Geek Girl in Hollywood

Jenna Busch takes on the way pop culture snubs its female fans. For more columns, visit Metro.us/jenna-busch as well as her site, Legion of Leia (Legionofleia.com)

I usually don't cover music. I love it, I listen to it, and it's a huge part of my life, but I don't write about it. Today, there wasn't really a choice. The news came in late Sunday that David Bowie had passed away from cancer at the age of 69. Celebrity deaths happen all the time, and those of musicians are often not a surprise. Stone Temple Pilots' Scott Weiland, sad as that was, didn't exactly come as a shock after his years of drug addiction. David Bowie, though — he's immortal. He's the Goblin King. How is it possible that he's gone?

I was thinking about why this one hit me so hard, and judging by the reaction on social media, it seems like I'm not the only one to find this more devastating than the average celebrity passing. I came to this conclusion: He was a weirdo. He was odd. He wasn't what anyone expected him to be. He was one of us.

So, why is a geek reporter covering music today? Because many of us have felt the same. We feel weird. We like things other people don't. (Well, now everyone likes them, but geek hasn't been chic for all that long.) We feel "off." Sometimes people don't know how to react to us.

Bowie cosplayed, dressing up in strange costumes and creating alter egos. He became Ziggy Stardust and then The Thin White Duke. He created a superweird video game that had sex shops and demons. (It's "Omikron: The Nomad Soul," if you're interested.) He wrote music about space (which pretty much ensured that I'd have space phobia forever). He made grand gestures like putting out an album as a final goodbye to his fans with lyrics we'll be dissecting for years. He was dramatic. He lived differently. He was special.

I sometimes think that, as geeks, we love the things we love because they stand out from the normal, mundane world. They make us matter in some way. They make us feel like we won't fade into the background of day-to-day life and bills and kids and mortgages. Being weird means we were here.

All hail the Goblin King. Rest in peace.

"TRAINING DAY"

Denzel Washington scored his second Oscar by going bad in "Training Day." PROVIDED

Denzel Washington just received the Cecil B. DeMille Award for lifetime achievement at the Golden Globes, which makes it a good time to revisit his rabid turn as a crooked cop in "Training Day." But the movie has more going for it than Denzel. As his rookie partner, Ethan Hawke finally showed he could do more than brood angstily. And director Antoine Fuqua found the right mix of smarts and trash.

"WE NEED TO TALK ABOUT KEVIN"

Tilda Swinton tries and fails to keep it together in "We Need to Talk About Kevin." OSCILLOSCOPE PICTURES

One thing Tilda Swinton does better than most is wigging-out. She won her Oscar for playing a flabbergasted company lawyer in "Michael Clayton," and she unravels even better as a mother whose son (Ezra Miller) unleashed a Columbine-style massacre. The film, by Scotland's great Lynne Ramsay ("Morvern Callar"), mirrors her fractured psyche, jumping around the timeline and focusing on someone who treated motherhood grouchily even before realizing she'd birthed a bad egg.

"HORSE MONEY"

The one known only as Ventura appears in Pedro Costa's "Horse Money." CINEMA GUILD

Portuguese filmmaker Pedro Costa is a hard sell: the most minimalist of minimalists, the most austere of the austere. Many of his films, like "In Vanda's Room" and "Colossal Youth," stare dead-eyed on the impoverished, in grungy long takes that never seem to end. Angry yet playful, "Horse Money" is a series of elegant video tableaux about the country's forgotten immigrants from the Ivory Coast, who struggle to get hospital care but are ignored and stuck roaming the shadows.

6 Reservations to make for winter Restaurant Week

Over 370 restaurants are taking part — here are our picks.

eva.kis@metro.us

The city's biggest restaurant event to date is almost here, but you won't want to wait to make these reservations.

The winter edition of NYC Restaurant Week (Jan. 18-Feb. 5) will have the most participants in its history, with 372 restaurants across the five boroughs serving special prix-fixe menus for lunch and dinner over 19 days. And with 34 cuisines represented, you'll never eat the same dish twice.

Among returning favorites like Lafayette, Narcissa and Craftbar turning out three-course lunches ($25) and dinners ($38), there are also 41 newcomers, like Jean Georges' ABC Cocina and Cherche Midi with its unmissable burger. Here are some of your best bets, from trendy spots to great values.

The newcomer that made a splash

New Italian spot Sessanta appeared on nearly every best-of list at the end of the year. Now that the balmy Mediterranean coast feels farther away than ever, it's time for dishes like sausage meatballs with Sicilian honey and rolled flank steak studded with lardo. Get your dinner with a generous quartino of wine to keep things lively. 60 Thompson St., SoHo

Asia de Cuba FACEBOOK

Returning favorite

After closing in 2011, it took former hot spot Asia de Cuba until early 2015 to return, but chef Luis Pous is making up for lost time with the kind of East-meets-Caribbean fare that makes us glad the fusion trend hasn't passed yet. Lucky you: The unmissable tunapica tartare makes the cut for its Restaurant Week menu, as does the glazed cod with avocado-poblano puree and a dessert that truly combines the two great cuisines: tres leches with chocolate-Szechuan peppercorn ice cream. 415 Lafayette St.

The best people-watching

The fashion-forward set have colonized Sant Ambroeus, an understated bistro that exudes the kind of classic sophistication only French women seem to have mastered. The food is definitely cheat-day fare if your job is to fit into size 0 dresses, though — think burrata, tagliatelle with veal ragu and the house specialty, chocolate cake made with custard and mousse. 259 W. Fourth St.

Power lunching

You're probably a regular at Fourth Wall Restaurants' newest steakhouse, Quality Eats, but Smith & Wollensky is the OG that's been keeping the Midtown expense-account set in deal-making beef since 1977. All the steaks are aged in-house, and the filet and sirloin both made the Restaurant Week lunch menu, as well as the colossal lump crab cakes and the coconut layer cake that is worth its own trip. 797 Third Ave.

Making a change

You're not the only one who made a resolution to eat better this year. Chef Marco Canora just rebooted Heart to reflect his changed eating philosophy, ditching flour and processed oils for nutrient-dense fare like bread made with long-fermented grains, a "variety burger" that uses organ meats, and carrot and beet tartare. 403 E. 12th St.

Checking in

Now on its third chef since reopening less than two years ago, Central Park dining icon Tavern on the Green is eventually bound to get it right. (Right?) Restaurant Week is the perfect chance to give this pricey classic another try and see what former Russ & Daughters chef John Stevenson has been doing with the menu, like the new signature burger made with brisket and shortrib for lunch, or a classic London Broil with creamed spinach at dinner. 67th Street & Central Park West

Ratatat gets real on the art of creating 'Magnifique' music

What exactly are the stories behind songs with no lyrics? Ratatat's Evan Mast fills us in.

EMILY LAURENCE
@EmLaurence
emily.laurence@metro.us

Brooklyn-based duo rock/electronica instrumental Ratatat (Evan Mast and Mike Stroud) know how to put on a good show. In fact, they've become so good at it that they basically tour nonstop, which is why it took them five years to release their fifth album, "Magnifique," last summer.

"From the beginning, we always wanted to play actual instruments on stage rather than do a laptop set or DJ kind of thing just because it's more interesting to watch," Mast tells us. While the duo play live instruments on stage, they also add elements, like lights and lasers making their show's visually stimulating as well.

The live shows, in turn, influence their sound. "When we got into the studio, we were responding to have been touring a lot and we really wanted to make songs that would be effective live. For us, that meant getting back into guitar."

Naming songs with no lyrics

As a purely instrumental band, it's harder to know what Ratatat's songs are about. All the listener has to go on is the sound and song titles such as "Cream On Chrome" and "Pricks of Brightness," which aren't saying much.

"Usually a song starts with something we are influenced by, like a sound or a feeling," Mast says. "Then we start reacting to that, adding another layer and then reacting to that and adding another layer. It's very intuitive. I went to school for visual art [Mast and Stroud met at Skidmore College] and it's very much like creating an abstract painting or collage. The song starts to have some kind of emotion, and once we see that, it's about pushing that as much as we can."

When it comes to naming a song — or collection of songs — with no lyrics, Mast says he and Stroud simply try out different ideas until something feels right. Both guys have total veto power over names — if they don't both 100 percent love it, it's a no-go.

Hibernating in the studio

When Mast and Stroud work on an album, they seclude themselves for weeks at a time. For the duration of writing and recording the songs, it's just the two of them.

Mast says reemerging can be jarring, especially since both live in New York. "It's a really weird experience because you're working so intensely for that period and you're so focused on the music," he says.

4 Tips for an organized home

Professional organizers help get your place in order for 2016.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

If you haven't worn it in a year, it's time to evaluate.

There's a reason you haven't started that "get organized" New Year's resolution yet, and the reason is simple: It's an overwhelming chore. Well, for most of us at least. You see, some people not only enjoy finding order in the chaos, but they enjoy it so much they've made it into a career. Before you forget all about your 2016 pledge, we hit up some professional organizers for their top tips.

Start small

If you resolved to learn to cook this year, you wouldn't start with hosting a six-course dinner party. Likewise, you don't want to kick off your organizing plan with a garage overhaul. "The junk drawer is the perfect starter project because it's a microcosm of your entire home," says New York-based organizer Jeni Aron, owner of Clutter Cowgirl. "You can sort your junk drawer in a half-hour to an hour. And then you can move on to a bigger challenge with confidence."

Get a handle on your paperwork

You know those papers on your coffee table? Well, more are coming in tomorrow's mail. The good news? It's fairly simple to get a handle on. "A quick solution is to gather all your current papers in one place and divide everything into three piles: To Do, To Read and To File," advises Debbie Lillard, author of "A Mom's Guide to Home Organization." "If unopened mail is included in that pile of paperwork, open it and discard envelopes and excess materials. Then tackle one pile at a time until you are caught up. Just having it all in one place will make you feel more in control."

Confront the closet

More than any other space, closets are prone to becoming cluttered, daunting pits. "If you haven't worn something in a year, you probably won't wear it again," says New York-based organizer Aly Finkelstein, of Organized by Aly. "Scan your closet and then bag all of your unwanted clothes for either resale or, preferably, donation." While you're in there, she says to replace those warped, mismatched, clothes-snagging hangers — it's the new year, after all.

Think digital

Organizing isn't limited to your physical space these days. You know all of those pictures floating around in your email and text messages? Rescue them before they float away into the ether. "Organizing last year's digital photos is the type of project you can accomplish in an afternoon," says Philadelphia-area organizer Crystal Sabalaske, owner of Cluttershrink. "Search by year, select those you want to print and then file everything away in dated folders."

Tommy Hilfiger slashes price of Plaza penthouse

TheRealDeal.com is a daily blog and monthly magazine covering real estate in the New York metro area.
THE REAL DEAL

This can be yours for $68.95 million. PROVIDED

It seems Tommy Hilfiger has a New Year's resolution — to finally unload his Plaza Hotel penthouse. The fashion magnate has slashed the price of the 6,000-square-foot, four-bedroom apartment by a hefty $6.05 million, bringing the price to $68.95 million, or just under $11,500 per square foot.

Hilfiger and his family first listed the property in 2013 with Dolly Lenz, asking $80 million, or a sky-high $13,333 a foot. He set his sights a notch lower the following year, cutting the ask to $75 million and switching Lenz for the Corcoran Group's Marie-Claire Gladstone.

"They have never been in a rush to sell but they said, 'It's a new year. Let's sell it this year," Gladstone told The Real Deal. "They have a very active life and travel a lot so there's no point in really keeping it."

Hilfiger bought three apartments in the Plaza for $25 million in 2008. He then reportedly spent a further $20 million to combine the three units and fully renovate the space, garnishing it with Warhols and Basquiats from his extensive art collection. KATHERINE CLARKE

Field for Giants HC still wide

Big Blue can't wait too long to make a decision.

MATT BURKE
@burke_metro
matthew.burke@metro.us

One of the top coaching names on the market this offseason, Adam Gase, landed in Miami this past weekend — signaling to other teams with openings that they better make a decision soon. Where it becomes tricky is that if the Giants have their heart set on, say, a Patriots assistant they had better hope the Pats get eliminated this weekend. You cannot make an offer to a coach from another team until that coach's team is no longer playing.

A look at candidates and their status:

Hue Jackson, Bengals offensive coordinator

Jackson appears close to taking the Browns job (where he'd be able to help select the team's GM), but one would think he'd hear the Giants first. New York requested permission to speak with Jackson on Monday. Jackson made Andy Dalton into a Pro Bowl quarterback and got some good games out of A.J. McCarron down the stretch of the regular season. Imagine if he had a proven commodity to work with like Eli?

Sean McDermott, Panthers defensive coordinator

McDermott will surely secure a job somewhere by the end of this process. He reportedly interviewed with the Browns and Buccaneers. McDermott is only 41 years old, so that may be something of a risk for the Giants' historically prudent front office.

Mike Smith, former Falcons head coach

Coaches on their second NFL head coaching jobs have a good success rates (Bill Belichick and Tom Coughlin are examples A and B). Smith showed early in his time in Atlanta that he can win in the league as he needed the third-fewest games since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger to reach the 50-win plateau, according to Elias Sports Bureau. The Giants have already spoken with Smith about the job.

Doug Marrone, Jaguars assistant

Marrone had the Bills on the upswing until he opted out of his contract in curious fashion a year ago. One of his former assistants, Bob Casullo, told ESPN last year that "when [Marrone] takes a job he already has his plan in place for his next job." Casullo added that Marrone is "self-centered, selfish and greedy." Well then.

It's been rumored that John Mara wants someone with head coaching experience, so Marrone at least has that going for him.

Josh McDaniels, Patriots offensive coordinator

His name was mud just a few years back, but McDaniels is the odds-on favorite to become the first Bill Belichick assistant to become a great head coach. The man who calls the plays for Tom Brady can be picky at this stage of things as he will want to go to a place that has a legit quarterback already on the roster. He is said to be highly interested in the Tennessee job, with Marcus Mariota in place, and the newly opened Tampa Bay job is also appealing (with Jameis Winston under center). But if McDaniels wants to win right away, teaming up with Eli is a hell of an option. Like McDermott, McDaniels is young (39) ... but then again he's an old 39.

Giant search

Giants assistants
At this point the hiring of offensive coordinator Ben McAdoo or defensive coordinator Steve Spagnuolo would be the definition of "boring." But sometimes, "boring" is wise.

Bill Cowher
ProFootballTalk's Mike Florio wrote last week that Cowher would want full control of Giants personnel decisions — which would mean Big Blue would have to fire GM Jerry Reese.

Hue Jackson is set to interview with the Giants on Thursday. GETTY IMAGES

Big brother complex

Brothers Robin, left, and Brook Lopez, right, will square off again on Wednesday (7:30 p.m., YES, MSG) at Barclays Center when the Knicks take on the Nets. The Knicks have been hot of late and are chasing a playoff berth in the East while the Nets shook up their franchise this past weekend when they fired head coach Lionel Hollins and re-assigned GM Billy King. Robin is averaging 8.3 points and 5.7 rebounds per game with the Knicks while Brook is pumping in 19.7 points and grabbing 8.5 rebounds per game with the Nets. GETTY IMAGES

Jets' Harrison may be odd man out

New York may not have enough cash to re-sign their nose tackle.

KRISTIAN DYER
@KristianRDyer
sports@metro.us

The most difficult man for the New York Jets to hold onto this offseason may not be Pro Bowl defensive end Muhammad Wilkerson or quarterback Ryan Fitzpatrick. It might well be Damon Harrison, the nose tackle who is set for a major payday.

Harrison is coming off a year in which he was in the midst of some talk for a Pro Bowl or an All-Pro nod, such was the productivity of his third year in the league. He posted a career-high 72 tackles this past year along with his first-ever forced fumble. It's the kind of the season that shows his impact, all done in the thankless and oft-overlooked role of a nose tackle in a 3-4 defense.

Damon Harrison, center, fires up the jets prior to a preseason game against the Giants in August. GETTY IMAGES

Which means that Harrison, part space-eater and part impact player, has positioned himself to get the coveted second contract where an NFL player earns the bulk of his money. And with the Jets likely placing a franchise tag on Wilkerson and needing to ink Fitzpatrick for at least two years, Harrison might be the odd man out at the end of the day. There might not be enough money to give Harrison the kind of contract he deserves.

Two years ago, the Jets tried to sign him long term, with a team source saying that he was offered a three-year contract for $15 million. Harrison turned down that offer.

This means that Harrison could be primed to receive one of the largest contracts for any 3-4 nose tackle in the NFL, something that might be in line with defensive tackles Haloti Ngata or Geno Atkins. And it could be argued that Harrison's dominance in the 3-4, much more demanding and grueling on a nose tackle than in the 4-3, could mean that a team would be willing to overpay for his services. Perhaps a team like the New England Patriots, who lost Vince Wilfork to free agency last year and need a nose tackle in the worst way.

Harrison is also a marketable personality, funny and charming and a ham for the camera. His story, coming from working at a Target to junior college and then NAIA program William Penn before being signed as an undrafted free agent is now set for a next chapter that could be quite lucrative.
